

Don't be fooled by common myths about cycling – use these explanations to help spread the truth!

Our roads are too narrow

It's too hilly here

Shopkeepers rely on people driving

Shops won't get deliveries

We're not Dutch or Danish

Cycling isn't safe

People with physical disabilities can't cycle

I'm too old to cycle

Liability laws will make people drive safely

Everyone needs to share the road

We need more cycle training, not cycling infrastructure

The weather isn't right

People should wear helmets when cycling

Cycling infrastructure slows down cycling

Cycling causes danger to people walking

It's too expensive to provide for cycling

People don't use cycling facilities that already exist

Higher standards of driving would make cycling safe

People break the rules when cycling

Cycling causes congestion

Cycling infrastructure is unsafe

We need more electric cars

We'll be stuck on terrible cycle paths

People should cycle at the side of the road, not in the middle

People who cycle don't pay for the roads

Bus lanes provide good conditions for cycling

People should wear hi-viz when cycling

Cycling makes you sweaty

You need lots of special stuff to cycle

People won't or can't cycle very far

Are we missing a fallacy or two? Let us know!

Search fallacies

Supported by:

Donate with

Cycling Fallacies was inspired by Your Logical Fallacy Is...

© 2016, some rights reserved, licensed under Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International – more information here

