

Public transport

Travelling to or from the University for work, study or business, using public transport has many benefits including:

- › Less cars on the road, thereby reducing congestion and pollution through fewer exhaust emissions.
- › Reduced stress when travelling as you do not need to worry about traffic and parking.
- › Increased exercise if you walk or cycle to/from the bus and train stations.

The vast majority of public transport in Northern Ireland is provided by Translink, who offer various products across their bus & rail services to encourage use.
